

Creative Arts Thrive at Coleman

For 18 summers, Grace Sherman of Miami Beach, FL, a nationally recognized multi-media artist, has been the Art Director at Camp Coleman. When she came to the job in the summer of 1993, Grace set out to create “one of the best art programs in any camp anywhere in the United States”. In her job interview she told Camp Director, Bobby Harris, that it was her goal that campers would “want to come back to the Coleman Art Center every day and every summer to participate in a diverse, engaging, professional, and incredible Art program”.

And, Coleman is pleased to announce that Grace will be returning yet again to Coleman in the summer of 2010 to lead dynamic sessions in jewelry making, candle making, ceramics, painting, woodworking, mosaics, batik, glass, metal, wire, murals, and much more. At any given moment in Coleman’s spacious Minsky Arts Center campers are proudly creating their own unique projects using all kinds of materials including a ceramics chess set and wooden table, mosaics, wire sculptures, 3 dimensional wall hangings, silver rings and Kiddush cups, in addition to hundreds of other projects. In addition to Grace, Coleman hires a range of accomplished artists and staff, in wide variety of fine and performing arts to assure that we offer an inspiring program for our campers.

When Grace is not at Coleman, you can find her in Miami Beach as the artist--in-residence at Temple Beth Shalom or leading a fun workshop for all ages at Camp Coleman Family Camp in August.

Camp Coleman enriches lives by building Jewish identity, lifelong friendships and personal growth – creating a better world.
